Producers and brothers Benjamin and David Spindler, ninth generation of one of Germany's most illustrious circus dynasties, infuse the show with authentic details from their home country.

The excitement begins the moment guests enter the bier hall, serving up German delights such as pretzels, sausages, potato pancakes and a selection of the finest Bavarian beers. A resplendent maypole adorned with colorful ribbons greets guests as they enter the Big Top tent, setting the stage for the celebratory opening number with the performers in traditional Bavarian costumes.

Germany's Great Bavarian Circus features an award-winning European cast who take center stage to dazzle and amaze, bringing gasps and laughter to the crowd in acts set to a mix of German music and current hits. Performers on silks, the trapeze and straps fly through the air, defying gravity. Dexterous jugglers, flipping trampoliners and acrobatic balancers showcase their athletic prowess in the ring, while presentations of spirited goats and loveable dachshunds bring happy smiles to all. Clowns will have the audiences roaring with laughter, performing throughout the show, often inviting members of the audience on stage.

This tour is the realization of a long-held dream of Max Spindler, Benjamin and David's father. After a visit to the U.S. with his sons, Max was inspired to introduce their family circus and its rich history to the audiences of America. With a legacy that spans more than 100 years of performing, the cast and crew of Germany's Great Bavarian Circus includes 13 members of the Spindler family, who are an indomitable part of circus history, bridging the past and present. There's something for everyone in this unforgettable journey into the heart of German tradition and fun.
